

The blaugelb Universal Wood Screw, Flat Countersunk Head
for faster and more effective screwing – for optimum power transmission thanks to the TX drive.

blaugelb Universal Wood Screw TX, Flat Countersunk Head

For ideal screwing indoors and in furniture construction.

- ETA approval
- TX drive for optimum power transmission
- For universal application, as it is available with full and partial thread
- Partial thread version also equipped with milling ribs and cutting point

Product features:

The blaugelb Universal Wood Screw TX, Flat Countersunk Head is used for the fast and easy connection of wood and wood elements in interior work, furniture construction and wood construction. The flat countersunk head minimises the risk of injury by evenly countersinking into the material. Thanks to the powerful sliding coating, the screw connections can also be performed more quickly and stably.

The screw version with the partial thread also has milling ribs on the head and a cutting edge. The screw-in resistance is decreased by the cutting point, and splitting of the material is also prevented. The attached milling ribs render pre-countersinking unnecessary as the screw head mills into the wood itself.

Because of its characteristics, the full-thread version of the screw can also be used to fasten fitting components.

Product benefits:

- ETA approval
- TX drive for optimum power transmission
- For universal application, as it is available with full and partial thread
- Partial thread version also equipped with milling ribs and cutting point
